this book examines the influence of genre on contemporary asian american literary production drawing on cultural theories of representation social theories of identity and poststructuralist genre theory this study shows how popular prose fictions have severely constrained the development of asian american literary aesthetics

after the 1965 immigration and nationality act loosened discriminatory restrictions people from northeast asian countries such as south korea taiwan japan and eventually china immigrated to the united states in large numbers highly skilled asian immigrants flocked to professional managerial occupations especially in science technology engineering and math asian american literature is now overwhelmingly defined by this generation s children who often struggled with parental and social expectations that they would pursue lucrative careers on their way to becoming writers christopher t fan offers a new way to understand asian american fiction through the lens of the class and race formations that shaped its authors both in the united states and in northeast asia in readings of writers including ted chiang chang rae lee ken liu ling ma ruth ozeki kathy wang and charles yu he examines how asian american fiction maps the immigrant narrative of intergenerational conflict onto the two cultures conflict between the arts and sciences fan argues that the self consciousness found in these writers works is a legacy of japanese and american modernization projects that emphasized technical and scientific skills in service of rapid industrialization he considers asian american writers attraction to science fiction the figure of the engineer and notions of the postcolonial modernization theory and time travel and what happens when the dream of a stable professional identity encounters the realities of deprofessionalization and proletarianization through a transnational and historical materialist approach this groundbreaking book illuminates what makes texts and authors asian american filthy fictions addresses asian american literature by women to explore and explode the sedimented and solidified meanings we have created about asian americans and dirt through dialogues that not only cross disciplinary and institutional formations and borders but also question the very borders and territories upon which these arguments may be founded expertly questioning the construction of the ethnic body the book discusses critical discourses in ethnic and feminist studies around the topic of identity re production and transnational representation rody proposes a new paradigm for understanding the changing terrain of contemporary fiction she claims that what we have long read as ethnic literature is in the process of becoming interethnic examining an extensive range of asian american fictions she offers readings of three especially compelling examples the last ten years have witnessed an enormous growth in american interest in asia and asian american history in particular a set of key asian historical moments have recently become the subject of intense american cultural scrutiny namely china s cultural revolution and its aftermath the korean american war and its legacy the era of japanese geisha culture and its subsequent decline and china s one child policy and the rise of transracial international adoption in its wake grice examines and accounts for this cultural and literary preoccupation exploring the corresponding historical political situations that have both circumscribed and enabled greater cultural and political contact between asia and america this study examines the way americans of chinese descent were portrayed in american literature between 1850 and 1940 their depictions are compared to historical events that were occurring at the time the works of literature were published this edition has additions and corrections compared to the original hardback edition published in 1982 excerpt my purpose in writing this work has been to explore the depiction of chinese immigrants and their descendants in american fiction from the mid nineteenth century entry of the first chinese immigrants in significant numbers to the eve of world war ii i consider both the immigrant chinese and the american born generations that followed them to be chinese americans but will sometimes identify the groups separately in recognition of the fact that the historical experience and treatment of the immigrants in fiction has been different from that of their descendants the fiction treated in this study includes short stories and novels both by white americans and asian americans i am defining the term yellow peril as the threat to the united states that some white american authors believed was posed by the people of east asia as a literary theme the fear of this threat focuses on specific issues including possible military invasion from asia perceived competition to the white labor force from asian workers the alleged moral degeneracy of asian people and the potential genetic mixing of anglo saxons with asians who were considered a biologically inferior race by some intellectuals of the nineteenth century the chinese immigrants were the first target of this attention since they were the first asian immigrants to reach the united states in large numbers this study will focus on american fiction about chinese americans in an attempt to analyze the growth and development of attitudes about them my thesis is that the yellow peril is the overwhelmingly dominant theme in american fiction about chinese americans in the years with which this study is concerned it is expressed through the variety of images of the chinese americans that appear especially in their relation to and their role as part of the united states the historical causes and literary subject matter change but the theme neither disappears nor abates each work of fiction has been studied individually for the images it contains prior to the turn of the century the yellow peril is perceived only as stemming from the chinese in the twentieth century especially in the pulps the japanese joined the chinese as a perceived menace to europe and north america the overall process of evaluation relies primarily on detailed analyses of the characters under consideration this has been done with an awareness that the american public as a whole sometimes did not distinguish carefully among asian ethnic groups so that events involving one asian ethnic group often affected the image of another some works are obscure and these have been quoted at greater length than more available ones relatively few critical sources have been cited this is due to a dearth of relevant studies the less important works of fiction have naturally received little critical attention and often when such attention was concerned with pertinent stories the authors had little or nothing to say about the depiction of chinese americans this observation is intended only as an explanation and not as a value judgement of earlier scholarship with different goals contains alphabetically arranged entries that profile forty five asian american writers each entry includes an introduction to the author s life and work a list of principal works excerpts from reviews and criticisms and a bibliographic citation in double agency tina chen proposes impersonation as a paradigm for teasing out the performative dimensions of asian american literature and culture asian american acts of impersonation she argues foreground the limits of subjectivity even as they insist on the undeniable importance of subjecthood by decoupling imposture from impersonation chen shows how asian american performances have often been misinterpreted read as acts of betrayal rather than multiple allegiance a central paradox informing the book impersonation as a performance of divided allegiance that simultaneously pays homage to and challenges authenticity and authority thus becomes a site for reconsidering the implications of asian americans as double agents in exploring the possibilities that impersonation affords for refusing the binary logics of loyalty disloyalty real fake and asian american double agency attends to the possibilities of reading such acts as im personations dynamic performances and a performance dynamics through which asian americans constitute themselves as speaking and acting subjects
